Dear Mayor Hehr and Woodsfield Council Members,

Alley Cat Allies is aware that Woodsfield is searching for an approach to the population of community cats, or unowned cats who live outdoors, in the village. We are reaching out to express our support of a Trap-Neuter-Return (TNR) program, which is the only humane and effective approach to community cats.

Alley Cat Allies is the leader of the global movement to protect cats and kittens. Through our innovative programs and fearless advocacy, we champion the humane treatment of all cats. We work toward a world where every cat is valued and protected and every community and shelter has policies and programs to defend them.

Founded in 1990, Alley Cat Allies launched TNR into the mainstream in the United States, and we regularly work with lawmakers, animal shelters, and the public to change attitudes and advance lifesaving laws and policies that best serve the interests of cats. We offer the opportunity to provide our expertise and resources to Woodsfield.

Trap-Neuter-Return (TNR) Is The Only Humane, Effective Approach

Through TNR, community cats are humanely trapped; brought to a veterinary clinic to be spayed or neutered, eartipped (the universal sign that a cat has been spayed or neutered through a TNR program), and vaccinated; and then are returned to their original outdoor homes.

TNR is proven to stabilize community cat populations by stopping the cycle of reproduction; improve the cats' health and public health through vaccinations; and benefit animal control agencies and shelters by reducing cat intake and calls of concern. Today, communities in Ohio and across the country have adopted TNR ordinances or policies, and thousands more worldwide are conducting grassroots, volunteer-led programs.

Recognizing the reality that TNR programs do not always fit squarely within the four corners of existing legal structures, the American Bar Association, the largest association of legal professionals in the United States, took a position in 2017 urging state and local governments to interpret current laws and policies in a way that facilitates TNR. Therefore, it is critical that laws, policies, and interpretations are in place to permit TNR.

Please know that impounding community cats in shelters, or implementing cruel measures like a feeding ban, are wholly ineffective. When cats are removed from an area, new cats will move in to take advantage of the resources that sustained the original cats. The population will rebound. This well-documented phenomenon is known as the Vacuum Effect. Feeding bans do not work and punish both the cats and the compassionate people who care for them. Cats are territorial, bonded to their outdoor homes, and will not disappear simply because caring individuals can no longer legally feed them. Instead, these cats will roam further to find other food sources that are a byproduct of human habitation and activity. As a result, cats will become more visible in the community, which can lead to increased calls to animal control.

Additionally, feeding bans interfere with TNR because organized feeding is a necessary part of the process. If caregivers are prohibited from feeding, trapping cats is far more difficult, which ultimately leads to fewer spays and neuters taking place.

Please Support TNR

Alley Cat Allies urges Woodsfield to embrace a humane and effective approach that improves both cats' lives and the community—and TNR is that approach.

We are happy to provide any other information that would be helpful and hope to hear from you soon.

Sincerely,

Outreach Team
